Create your ORCID in Pure or link an existing one to your Pure profile

Pure automatically exports all of your publications into your ORCID record and auto-updates any changes. Pure uses ORCID to search for your Scopus author ID and publications in Scopus.

Use ORCID in your email signature along with your Pure portal URL
- Ensures that anyone can easily find your research with one click

Use ORCID when publishing
- Your publication is always linked with you

Import your research outputs into your ARC RMS profile from your ORCID record

Use ORCID on your CV
- Distinguish yourself from any other researcher

Always use ORCID in the format of a URL (e.g. https://orcid.org/0000-0001-2345-6789)

Use ORCID when applying for funding
- Ensures that funding agencies identify you accurately

The world's largest abstract and citation database of peer-reviewed literature

Link your Scopus profile with your ORCID to ensure you get full credit for your research. Once Scopus and ORCID are linked, Scopus exports your publications to your ORCID record, where they are merged with publications exported from Pure (if they are positively matched to be the same publication).
